Dear Bill,

It was a very great pleasure to have an opportunity to visit you and your staff on January 24th even though it was for a very short time. It is still remarkable to me that a relatively small group such as yours is making such an enormous contribution to the national security of our country. It is not so hard to understand when one meets the men under your command and senses the spirit which moves them toward a common objective.

STATINTL [REDACTED] We especially appreciated the kind hospitality which you and [REDACTED] extended to us, particularly in view of the unchristian hour at which we dined with you at your home. The dinner the preceding night was a delightful experience to meet under social conditions of considerable warmth the people of your organization and their wives. We all enjoyed this visit and will hope to stop off with you again.

Sincerely,

Albert D. Wheelon
